increasing production of its more affordable, lower-priced campervan conversions based on used vehicles it imports from Japan, such as the Toyota Alphard and Nissan NV350. These vehicles have high standard specifications, low mileages and petrol engines which are ULEZ-compliant. They receive the same quality of campervan conversion as all other models from Welhouse Leisure.

Looking ahead to 2024, Wellhouse Leisure is planning another busy year with some interesting additions to its business.

One of these additions is an expansion of its production facility by acquiring an adjoining building. This will create extra space in order to increase production in 2024.

A highlight of 2024 will be Wellhouse Leisure's first conversion of the new Ford Transit Custom. This will have the latest Ford PHEV (plug-in hybrid electric vehicle), 2.5-litre petrol engine, and the first models are expected to be ready in early spring 2024.

Wellhouse Leisure will be one of the first to introduce a campervan conversion of the new Ford Transit Custom in the UK in 2024.

To meet the growing demand for DIY van conversions, Wellhouse Leisure will be offering fully assembled furniture kits to fit the Volkswagen T6 Transporter, Ford Transit Custom and the Vauxhall Vivaro/Toyota Proace/Peugeot Expert/Citroën Dispatch/Fiat Scudo models. As it has done in the past, Wellhouse Leisure is also going start selling parts again for van conversions to professional and DIY converters.

Also new for 2024 will be the introduction of a small fleet of campervans to hire. There will be two Toyota Alphard conversions available to hire for affordable holidays or as an ideal way to 'try before you buy'.

David Elliott, CEO and founder of Wellhouse Leisure commented: "After the challenges of COVID and restricted supplies of vehicles and parts over the last couple of years, we are delighted to have bounced back and achieved record number of sales in 2023. One reason for our success has been our ability to listen to what the market wants and being as flexible as possible with our production. A great example of this is increasing the number of great value conversions of the used vehicles we import from Japan at a time when brand new vans have become more expensive and been in short supply."

"We're proud to have built close relationships with our customers and so grateful for all the votes we received to beat all our key competitors in the Customer Satisfaction Awards 2024," added David.
